Welcome to one of the most important classes you will take in law school. More than any other class you will take, this course is about you and your future (plus it is required). The course is designed to acquaint you with the lawyer's obligations—both individual and as a member of the legal profession—to the world in which he/she lives. In addition to a discussion of ethical concerns inherent in the practice of law, we will cover lawyer regulation including the Model Rules of Professional Conduct. We also will consider what it means for you to become a member of the legal profession at a time of economic pressure, technological advancement, and international competition. A lawyer's work largely turns upon relationships, namely between the lawyer and client, but also in the connections made with fellow lawyers, other professionals, and society in general. This course will be taught primarily through the hypotheticals and cases found in the casebook. The hypotheticals are in the form of multiple-choice questions, which conform to the style of the Multistate Professional Responsibility Exam (MPRE). Our class discussions will include topics such as what the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct require, state variations that are common, the wisdom of various policy choices, how the rules might apply to a hypothetical fact pattern, the pressures that might cause a lawyer to ignore regulatory rules, and the steps that you or others might take to better serve clients and to minimize the chance of a regulatory violation. Although we will study some additional materials, the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct will be the primary source of regulation covered in this course. *This syllabus is a general outline for the course and is subject to change; any changes will be given with proper notice.

Minimum Professional Responsibility Learning Outcomes

During your time in this course, you will:

- Develop knowledge and understanding of the substantive and procedural law regulating lawyers' conduct including advertising, attorney-client privilege, confidentiality, conflicts of interest, duties to the client, fees, obligations to third parties and the legal system, and unauthorized practice of law;
- Examine the special ethical rules applied to prosecutors and judges;
- Identify and apply the American Bar Association Model Rules of Professional Conduct in preparation for taking the Multistate Professional Responsibility Exam; and
- Reflect upon how to integrate conceptions of professionalism and legal ethics into your career.

Attendance

UHLC has a minimum 80% attendance policy for students. Any student who attends fewer than the minimum percentage of class sessions may be dropped automatically from the course or receive a failing grade. Instructors are free to impose stricter attendance standards. Instructors may consider those who come in late or leave early as absent or may decline to let a late student attend that day. Instructors use different methods to account for attendance. These include before-class roll calls, use of a seating chart, or requiring students to make an honor system certification at the end of the course. Any and/or all of these may be used for this class. This class has 13 sessions; therefore, you must attend 11 per UHLC policy (keep in mind we will not meet September 5). Consequences of nonattendance can be notification to the Office of Student Affairs (OSA). Accommodations will be made for military service, observation of religious holy days, medical illness, disability, death of a family member, legal or government proceeding, recognized professional and educational activities, and University sponsored competitions. Please notify me in advance, if possible.

Assessment - grading

Assessment in this class is based upon attendance and daily participation (25%), one short essay (25%), and the final exam (50%). Thoughtful, well-reasoned and well-edited, professional school level work is required and is a component of your grade, including on the final exam. This includes proper citation to rules, cases, laws, ethics opinions, etc. Your assessment work product must be exclusively your own, with help from no other person or technological system; no artificial intelligence systems may be a part of your process to generate assessment work product. Participation points will be based upon: (1) timely attendance and preparedness for the day's covered material, (2) thoroughness and thoughtfulness of responses to the hypothetical questions and case studies from the casebook; (3) participation in other class activities. Please note that participation points are not based upon a curve and it is my hope every class participant will receive all of the allotted points. I reserve the right to raise or lower a grade by one grade increment (ex: B+ to A-, or B to B-) for significant and consistent work that either exceeds the normal expectation of the class or that falls below all expectation such as nonattendance, unpreparedness, or lack of participation when called upon; as determined in my sole discretion. The short essay will be a topic chosen by me mid-semester, a take home assignment with several weeks to complete, several typed pages in length (further details provided later). The final exam will be a multiple-choice exam similar to the MPRE (date TBD). Participation, essays, and exams will not be anonymous.

The MPRE

For admission to the bar of most states (including Texas), you must pass the Multistate Professional Responsibility Exam (MPRE). The MPRE is a multiple-choice exam covering the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct and Code of Judicial Conduct as well as generally accepted principles established in federal and state cases regarding the conduct of lawyers. You must register for the test, pay the fee, take the test, and pass. This class will cover a number of subjects included on the exam and will provide a useful background; however, this is not an MPRE review course. Before you take the MPRE, I STRONGLY encourage you to take a review course in addition to this class. More information can be found at <https://www.ncbex.org/exams/mpre/registering-mpre>

Please know there are places on campus where you can make a report in confidence. You can find more information about resources on the Title IX website at <https://uh.edu/equal-opportunity/title-ix-sexual-misconduct/resources/>.

Honor Code: the UHLC Honor Code applies to all aspects of this course. You are responsible for knowing all Honor Code provisions and for complying with the Honor Code. For questions, please see the student handbook Code of Professionalism: <https://www.law.uh.edu/jd/current/handbook.pdf#page=42>.

AI Generated Text: the software technology known as artificial intelligence has recently expanded its capability to generate text (AI Generated Text). Examples of the technology include what are known as “generative” large language models (LLMs), and a specific implementation that is well known in the general public is ChatGPT. These systems can generate text in response to prompts and/or input of other text/documents/code/images. The output, the AI Generated Text, appears to have humanmimicking “intelligence” and is thus potentially usable as a substitute for written work product one might generate themselves. AI Generated Text can include computer code or programs as well as human language content. Your continuing enrollment in this course is deemed to be a pledge by you under the Honor Code to not prompt, generate, obtain, read, or use any AI Generated Text in relation to any activity or assessment in this course. This applies to AI Generated Text from yourself or others. This pledge includes that your assessment work product in this course is without any contribution from AI Generated Text. This specifically extends to the plagiarism policy and unauthorized aid/materials parts of the Honor Code. AI Generated Text will be treated as from another/others in applying the plagiarism policy to this course. The term “assessment” means any work product generated for this course that is submitted to the instructor or presented in a class session, regardless whether it is graded content or not. Assessments include participation, essay, and final exam. AI Generated Text may not be used in the development or drafting of any assessments created by you in a non-proctored environment, such as a “take home” essay or final examination unless specified as an exception. The parts of the Honor Code that refer to unauthorized materials or aid are specifically prohibited from any use of AI Generated Text in this course unless specified as an exception.

Recording of class: students may not record any, all, or part of class; livestream any, all, or part of class; or make/distribute screen captures, without advanced written consent of the instructor. If you have or think you may have a disability such that you need to record class-related activities, please contact the Justin Dart, Jr. Student Accessibility Center. If you have an accommodation to record class-related activities, those recordings may not be shared with any other student, whether in this course or not, or with any other person or on any other platform. Classes may be recorded by the instructor. Students may use instructor’s recordings for their own studying and notetaking. Instructor’s recordings are not authorized to be shared with anyone without the prior written approval of the instructor. Failure to comply with requirements regarding recordings may result in a disciplinary referral to the Dean of Students Office and may result in disciplinary action.
